IMPORTANT TO ALL.

DR. SWAYNE,
The discoverer and compounder of the far-famed Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry
and other valuable preparations, entered upon his professional career with the important advantage of a regular medical education to one of the oldest and best schools in Philadelphia, and, perhaps, in the world. He subsequently served a faithful term of practice in the Philadelphia Dispensary, and for many years attended in its Hospital. In these institutions he enjoyed the most ample opportunities of obtaining an insight into diseases in all their various forms, as well as for ascertaining the best methods of their treatment. In offering, therefore, to the people of the United States the fruits of his extensive professional experience in the medical compounds as the best results of his skill and observation, he feels that he is not proffering a noon to every family throughout the land, resting, as he does, confidently in the merits and efficacious virtues of the remedies he here with commends. The vast amount of testimony from all parts of the world has proven "DOCTOR SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY" the most efficacious remedy known, and it is admitted by our most eminent physicians, and all who have witnessed its wonderful healing properties. The WILD CHERRY in all ages of the world and in all countries where it is known has been justly celebrated for its wonderful medicinal qualities, but its great power to cure some of the worst and most distressing diseases among us was never fully ascertained until the experiments of that skillful physician, DR. SWAYNE, had demonstrated its high adaptation, in combination with Pine Tree Tar, and other equally valuable vegetable ingredients, which chemically combined renders it action tenfold more certain and beneficial in curing all diseases of the throat, breast and lungs. DR. SWAYNE'S WILD CHERRY COMPOUND strikes at the root of disease by purifying the blood, restoring the liver and kidneys to healthy action, invigorating the nervous and shattered constitution. If your druggist or storekeeper does not have it, do not be put off by any other remedy that may be offered, but send to us direct, and we will forward a half dozen to any address, freight paid, on receipt of the price, $1 per bottle, or $5 the half dozen. Address letters to DR. SWAYNE & SON, 330 North Sixth street, Philadelphia. No charge will be made for advice.

Ask Your Druggist for Them.

Females and all who value health should never be without the SWAYNE'S ALL-HEALING PILLS. As this pills control, remove all obstructions, cleanse the skin of all pimples and blotches, and bring the rich color of health to the pale cheek. Female irregularities are restored to health's condition. They are a certain cure for sick and Nervous Headache. As a family pill, nothing can exceed them. Take one, two, or three, as may be found necessary; unlike others, they neither gripe, produce nausea, or any other special annoyance, while they are as powerful as it is possible for a medicine to be and be harmless. These Pills cleanse and the dissolved humors, enrich and purify the blood, remove all unhealthy bilious secretions of the stomach and bowels, causing a perfectly healthy state of the liver, and are undoubtedly the best cathartic and antibilious medicine yet discovered; and we are determined that the sick shall have them at a price within the means of the poorest (25 cents a box of 30 Pills.) If your druggist or storekeeper has not got them, do not be put off by any others that may be offered in their place, but send to us direct, and we will forward by mail, on receipt of the price, 25 cents a box or five boxes $1.

Itching Piles
is generally preceded by a moisture, like perspiration, distressing itching, as though pin worms were crawling in or about the rectum, particularly at night when undressing, or in bed after getting warm. It appears to some sufferers as well as a tumor, sometimes shows itself around the private parts, and is not confined to males only, but is quite as frequent that females are sorely afflicted, particularly in times of pregnancy, extending into the vagina, proving distressing almost beyond the powers of endurance. Cases of long standing, pronounced incurable, have been permanently cured by simply applying

HOME.

BY JAMES MONTGOMERY.

There is a land, of every land the pride,
Beloved by heaven o'er all the world beside;
Where brighter suns dispense serener light,
And milder moons emparadise the night.
A land of beauty, virtue, valor, truth,
Time-tutored age and love-exalted youth.

The wandering stran r, whose e e explores
The wealthiest isles, the most enchanting shores,
Views not a realm so bountiful and fair,
Nor breathes the spirit of purer air;
In every clime the magnet of his soul,
Touched by remembrance, trembles to that pole;
For in this land of heaven's peculiar grace,
The heritage of nature's noblest race,
There is a spot of earth supremely blest,
A dearer, sweeter spot than all the rest,
Where mankind's tyrant, casts aside
His sword and sceptre, pageantry and pride,
While in his softened looks benignly beand
The sire, the son, the husband, brother, friend.

Here woman reigns; the mother, daughter, wife,
Strew with fresh flowers the narrow way of life!
In the clear heaven of her delightful eye
An angel-guard of love and graces lie;
Around her knees domestic duties meet,
And fireside pleasures gambol at her feet.

Where shall that land, that spot of earth be found!
Art thou a man?—a patriot?—look around;
Oh, thou shalt find, howe'er thy footsteps roam,
That land thy country, and that spot thy home!

THE WAY OF THE WORLD.

D. M. JORDAN.

There are beautiful songs that we never sing,
And names that are never spoken,
There are treasures guarded with jealous care
And kept as a sacred token.
There are faded flowers, and letters dim
With tears that have rained above them
For the fickle world and the faithless hearts
That taught us how to love them.

There are sights that come in our joyous hours
To chasten our dreams of gladness,
And tears that spring to our aching eyes
In hours of thoughtless sadness.
For the fairest bird that sings in spring
Will flit to the sweet of summer.
An Object that was blessed by Comfort love
Will smile on the first new comer.

Over the breast where lilies rest
In white hands stilled forever,
The roses of June will nod and blow,
Unheeding the hearts that sever.
And lips that quiver in silent grief,
All words of hope refusing,
Will lightly turn to the fleeting joys
That perish with the using.

Summer blossoms and winter snows,
Love and its sweet elysian;
Hope, like a siren dim and fair,
Quickening our fainting vision;
Drooping spirit and failing pulse
Where untold memories hover,
Eyelids touched with the seal of death
And the fitful dream is over.

Miscellaneous.

A WONDERFUL FOREIGNER.

HOW HE DISCOVERS CRIME BY MEANS OF A DIVINING ROD.

Some remarkable facts were told a reporter the other day in connection with a Frenchman named Jacques Careme, whose skill with the divining rod has earned him no little celebrity among the superstitions of his own countrymen. About three years ago, in the valley of the Meuse, five miles from Seraing, in Belgium, a new shaft for a projected coal mine was commenced. The stock company were satisfied that an excellent quality of mineral lay beneath them. Two of their number, MM. Chauvin and Garnier, were apprehensive that obstacles might be encountered in sinking the shaft, approaching as it did the northwesterly spur of the Vosges, which would materially detract from the subsequent profit of the enterprise. M. Chauvin dreaded water. M. Garnier was afraid of a deep band of igneous rock. Their partners laughed at them. They sent secretly to a village near Nordlingen, in Wurtemburg, for a man named Jacques Careme, famous for his divinations by means of rhabdomancy. Careme was placed over the spot where ground had been broken for the shaft. "He held in his hands a straight staff cut in two; one extremity of the one half was hollowed out, the other half was sharpened and rounded at the end, and this end was inserted in the hollow and the pointed stick could rotate in the cavity like a ball in a socket." Almost as soon as he had placed himself in position there was a violent action of the stick in the cavity. He boldly asserted that there was a tremendous quantity of water below. The two partners sold out of the company. The shaft was proceeded with. At the depth of 150 feet an enormous fissure or gullet was encountered, almost wide enough for a man to pass through. From this gullet a stream of water rushed in upon the sinkers with the force of a cataract. All progress for a time was prevented. M. Coulson, the most experienced sinker in Europe, directed operations. Heavy pumping machinery was erected, and a drift was constructed to carry this water to the river. There were four thirty inch pumps, and they discharged water at the rate of 7,500 gallons per minute. There had never been seen in Europe such powerful pumping apparatus. Notwithstanding their exceptional powers, they were quite inadequate. The water flowed in in greater force and volume than ever. The company made up their minds that it was useless longer to struggle against a condition of things that appeared to be irresistible.

Shortly afterwards, Jacques Careme, by means of his singular divining rods, discovered the perpetrators of a mysterious murder. The two culprits confessed the crime, and, according to sentence, were broken upon the wheel in the Place des Terraux, Seraing. This triumph of his art made Careme for a time the popular idol. Naturally, however, criminals of all classes regarded him with the deepest aversion. At any moment he might be induced to exercise his skill in detecting their crimes. They, therefore, formed a conspiracy to murder him, but receiving timely warning he summarily quit the country. During the early part of last winter he arrived in New York and proceeded to Sag Harbor, where he has a married sister.

On Christmas eve a neighbor named Aytoun, while absent from home had his house broken into and a quantity of wearing apparel stolen. The fact was mentioned to Careme. "Perhaps I may be able to discover the thief," he quietly said. On reaching the room where the theft had been committed the rods revolved rapidly in his hand, and they continued to rotate in his fingers as long as he remained within, and also when he came outside, and continued in a certain direction, but ceased to turn if he diverged from it in the slighest degree. Guided by his rod, Careme went from lane to lane in the direction of Amagansett. There he entered a cottage and asserted with warmth contrary to the asseveration of the occupant, that the thief had entered his room sometime during the previous day. The man said that was impossible, as he had been from home and the door had been locked. "Then the window was open," said Careme, confidently. Sure enough the window had been open. The house had been entered and an old-fashioned gold watch, the gift of a former employer, stolen from a bureau drawer in the little bed room. Johnson, the owner of the watch, now joined Careme in the quest, and he gazed with open mouth at the queer performances of the rhabdomancer and his whirling sticks. The track led to East Hampton, and to a dilapidated looking hut in that place. The sticks rotated violently as they approached the door and knocked. When a voice inside cried "who's there?" Careme was so much agitated that he nearly fainted. The door was opened; the thief stood before them. "Secure the man," said Careme, "it is he." The fellow, after the most positive denial, was finally overcome by his superstitious fears and confessed the burglaries. The clothes and the watch were produced, and on the thief's promising future reformation, with tears in his eyes, he was not given up to justice.

On the 14th of June last past a wealthy family in Hicksville, Long Island, missed from the family safe a quantity of valuable jewelry, consisting of diamond rings, gold bracelets, watches, chains, etc., to the value of over $7000.

The safe was intact. The lock was perfect. The key was in safe keeping. It was evidently no burglar's work; nor could the servants, of whom there were two, have had any hand in the robbery. No one could have opened the safe unless they knew the combination. There were only four persons who knew it—the father and mother and the son and daughter, both the last named of whom have attained their majority. George, the son, is a steady, religious young man, a strict teetotaler and a patron of Young Men's Christian Associations. He had free access to the safe and its contents at all times. So had his sister.

They had no inducement for abstracting by stealth what they could have possessed themselves of openly. Besides, the key of the safe had been locked up in the old gentleman's writing desk for three weeks, and had been last used in the presence of the daughter, when placing a bracelet that had been recently repaired, in the safe.

A private detective of some experience was consulted. He was greatly perplexed. His suspicions not unnaturally fell upon some one of the six inmates of the house. He finally dismissed the theory as untenable. "Some of the family must be somnambulists," he laughingly suggested. He could discover no trace of the jewelry in any of the New York or Brooklyn stores where such valuables were likely to find their way, and he assured the family that it was a case which time and perseverance alone could solve. The subject meanwhile was kept a profound secret. The two servants were placed under strict espionage. George, the son, had been to Sag Harbor on business on the first day of the current month, and he casually heard some of the details of Careme's discovery of the stolen clothes and watch. He determined to see the rhabdomancer. He beheld a quiet little man, with a soft, violet eye and flaxen hair, with small artistic fingers and a neck like a woman. He spoke English remarkably well for a foreigner, but was unwilling to enter into details respecting his own performances in Germany and Belgium. He said it was a divinely imparted power, and therefore, not a subject for self-glorification. The story of the mysterious safe robbery was told. Careme listened with interest. "I cannot tell, but perhaps I may be able to assist in some way." That night he slept in the Hicksville mansion. After breakfast next morning he was conducted to the scene of the robbery, with the rods placed between his two extended palms. There was no motion as he traversed the corridor and ascended the stairway. But when he reached the small safe, the rods rotated tremulously and the man's pulse could be plainly perceived to rise as if he had an access of fever.

The same motions and symptoms manifested themselves as he proceeded down the back staircase used by the servants. Then the trail led through a window ana into the garden. The robber had come from without! The trail led by an eccentric circuit to the railway station. The burglar had left by a train. Three lines of railroad centre at Hicksville; which had he taken? Careme said he would have to try this by experiment. He must travel every line and get out at every station until he recovered the track of the fugitive. His still had never been before confronted with the difficulties of a railroad, and he was confused. He traveled to Syosset, Cold Spring and Northport on a sleeveless errand. Then he tried Westbury, Mineola, Jamaica and Brooklyn where he recovered the scent. George, who accompanied Careme on this extraordinary quest, laughed incredulously. It seemed mere midsummer madness. But the sticks rotated and Careme's face was flushed with excitement. They came to Fulton Ferry, crossed, and again the trace was lost. Careme was troubled and perplexed. Just then, however, a strange thought flashed across the young man's mind. "Come with me," said he, and they proceeded to the corner of Broadway and Wall street. Again the sticks began to violently rotate. Careme led the way down Wall street, passed Broad, and still continued onwards. At the door of a certain building he stopped, and proceeded up stairs. George was so agitated that his knees could scarcely support him. With fatal precision the door of a room was reached and entered.

The young man's dearest friend was the only inmate. "This is the man" said Careme. A wild, exciting and painful scene followed. "Why you have not been at Hicksville in two years," said George. "Yes I have," was the guilty confession. The excitement of the gambler's table, heavy losses, betrayal of friendship—these were the salient points of the story. He had learned the secret of the combination—had abstracted the key from George's pocket, made a cast of it and had another manufactured. While the sister and her mother were residing at his home in Hicksville, the wretched gambler proceeded to Hicksville, and while the old gentleman and George were in the house proceeded quietly to ride the safe. Had he been discovered he purposed to pass the thing off as a good practical joke, and of course the explanation would have been accepted. Some of the goods will be recovered, but there will be no exposure.

How to Dumbfound a Robber.

It happened upon one occasion that your uncle Frank had to go to London upon some important business. I was not in very good health, and retired to my bed room about two hours before his departure. He promised to come up and wish me good-bye before he started, which would be between twelve and one o'clock in the morning. The master which called him away was connected with the bank here, which had just been burned down; and my husband, it seems, though I did not know it at the time, had many thousand pounds belonging to the concern in his possession, locked up in the iron safe in our bedroom, where the plate was kept. He was bank manager, and responsible for the whole of it. It was winter and there was a fire in the room, so bright and comfortable that I was in no hurry to get into bed, but sat up, looking into the fiery coals, and thinking about all sorts of things. It was a little after eleven o'clock when I got into bed, but I did not feel the least inclined for sleep even then. I knew that Frank would be coming to wish me good-bye presently; and besides, there seemed to be all sorts of noises about the room, which my foolish care always used to hear when I was alone at night. You may imagine, then, my horror, when I heard a tremendous sneeze within a quarter of an inch from me, just behind the head-board of the bed and between that and the wall, where there was a considerable space.

The only thing, as I believe that saved my reason from departing altogether, when I first heard that terrible sound, was that my mind clung to the hope that it was, after all, but the sneeze of a cat. Fifty cats together could not have made such a disturbance, it is true, for it was the sneeze of a man who sneezes in spite of himself, and almost shook the house. The next instant the wretch had sneezed again, and pushing aside the bed, which rolled on castors, I felt he was standing beside my pillow, looking at me. If I had given only one sneeze he might have believed me, as I lay quite still, breathing as regularly as I could, and pretending to be asleep; but he reasoned very justly, that unless I was deaf or dead, I must have been awakened by the second.

"You're awake, marm," said he, in a gruff voice, "and its no use shamming! If you don't want a tap with this life-preserver just look alive!"

I opened my eyes exceedingly wide at this and beheld a man, with a crape over his face, standing by the bed. He held a sort of club with two knots upon it in his right hand, and with his left he pointed to the iron safe.

"Is the money there?" said he.

"The plate is," said I, in a trembling voice. "Take it, sir; I am sure you are welcome;" for he might have had everything of value in the house, with all my heart, so he left me my life.

"The money—the gold—the notes, are they there?" cried he again, in a terrible sort of whisper.

"It is all there," replied I, although I knew nothing about it; "for I would not deceive you, sir, on any account."

"You had better not," observed the burglar, grimly, "or it will be all the worse for you." He produced a key like one my husband used, and approached the iron safe; but as he did so his guilty ear caught a footstep on the staircase.

"Who's that?" cried he.

"My husband, sir," returned I; "but, pray don't hurt him; pray."

"Is he not going to town, then?" cried the ruffian with an oath of disappointment.

"He is going at 12 o'clock," replied I; "he is indeed."

"If you tell him," said the burglar hoarsely—"if you breathe but one word of my presence here it will be the death doom of you both;" he had slipped into the alcove, and drawn the bed back again to its place in an instant.

Your Uncle Frank leaned over the pillow to kiss me, and observed how terrified I looked.

"You have been frightening yourself about robbers again, I suppose, my silly child.

"Not I, Frank," returned I as cheerfully as I could; "I have only a little headache," but I said with my fingers so that he could plainly read it in the firelight—"For God's sake, hush; there's a man behind the bed-head."

Your Uncle Frank was as bold as a lion, and had nerves like iron. He only answered, "where is your sal volatile, dearest?" and went to the mantel piece to get it. I thought he could never have understood, he spoke with so much coolness and unconcern, until I saw his fingers reply as he took up the bottle: "All right, don't be afraid!" and then I was not afraid, or at least not so much.

"He has a life preserver," said I with my fingers

"Your fire is getting rather low, Georgey," observed he, taking up the poker, "I must leave you a good fire to comfort you before I go." He poked the fire, and left the poker in, but without ever taking his eyes off me and the bed-head. "I will just ring the bell and see whether Thomas has got my portmanteau ready. "Mary," continued he to the maid that answered the bell, "send Thomas up." Then when she had gone upon that errand: "By Jove! I never gave him that key; where is it, Georgey? I have not a minute to lose. Is it in your dressing-case with the rest there? I shall be an age in looking for it. Might I ask you to get out of bed for an instant and show me which it is?" He said with his fingers, "jump!" and I jumped you may be sure, Dicky, quickly enough, and was inside the dressing-room, and with the door locked in half a second.

"Come in, Thomas," said your uncle

THE RESULT.

It will be seen by the reports of the recent elections, that the Democrats have carried the State of Ind. electing their whole State ticket, thus insuring in their favor the ultimate result of the Pres. election. Ind. has not been carried by the Dems. in a Pres. election for 20 years. Even at the State election of 1872, when Hendricks by reason of personal popularity was chosen Gov. by a maj. of 1100 the remainder of the State ticket was lost. Notwithstanding the withdrawal of the Greenback candidate for Gov. in the interest of the Republicans just before the late election, which was the last desperate movement, and intended to be a fatal blow to the Democracy, the State stands immovably pledged to Tilden, Hendricks and Reform and takes its place among the permanent reliable Democratic States.

The election in Ohio is most gratifying—whatever may be the result there is to be shown by more complete returns. It has been a State of 20,000 or more Reppublican majority for half a generation with rare exceptions where local causes operated or a light vote was polled. The majority is now substantially swept away, at a full, contested election, when Herculean efforts were put forth by the Republicans to hold it. Even if the Republicans have carried it by a lean majority, the moral effect of such a vote throughout the country will be damaging in the highest degree to Hayes and his party. The vote of Ohio is not needed for the election of Tilden, and has not been claimed by the Democracy, but such voting as this in his own State, must be regarded as most mortifying if not disgraceful to the Republican Candidate.

HAYES, A KNOW NOTHING.

On the 5th of July last chapter 931 of an organization known as the "American Alliance" met in Philadelphia and adopted a series of resolutions which said of the nominations of Messrs. Hayes and Wheeler that they were 'hereby indorsed by the American Alliance conference,' and that the alliance "earnestly advised all who are in favor of American principles, as advocated and set forth in these resolutions, to give these nominations an active and determined support.'"

"These resolutions" were sent to Mr. Hayes, who returned the following reply, dated July 5, 1876, addressed to "Lemuel J. Tyler, secretary of the American Alliance:"

"I have just received your letter informing me of my election as a member of your admirable Alliance. Return my thanks to the Alliance, as I deeply sympathize with its principles. I remain your fellow citizen,

"R. B. Hayes."

This fact was published by the New York World and called forth from A. E. Lee, the private secretary of Mr. Hayes, the following letters, the first of which was addressed to the Secretary of the American Alliance.

Columbus, O, September 13, 1876.—Dear Sir: It is not true that General Hayes was a Know Nothing or that he has given any assurance of sympathy with, or indorsement of, declarations against the naturalization of foreigners, or the privileges of naturalized citizens. He is opposed, as the republican party is, to any sectarian interference, Catholic or otherwise, with political affairs.

"You can denounce as one of the roorbacks of the campaign any charges inconsistent with these facts. Very truly yours,

A. E. Lee, Private Secretary."

"Columbus, September 14, 1876.—Colonel L. Markbreit: No such letter was ever written. The story that Governor Hayes ever indorsed such sentiments, by letter or otherwise, is utterly false. A. E. Lee."

Subsequently, however, the World published a fac simile of a letter from Lee on behalf of Mr. Hayes which was precisely similar in tone and spirit with that of Mr. Hayes. This leaves Mr. Lee in a very embarassing predicament and he will probably experience some difficulty in explaining that Mr. Hayes never "endorsed such sentiments." In order that a correct idea may be formed of what these sentiments are, we give below the first, two articles in the Constitution of the American Alliance:

ARTICLE I.

The name of this order shall be the American Alliance.

ARTICLE II.

SECTION 1. The object of this organization is for the maintenance of American principles, as follows: An amendment to the naturalization laws limiting the suffrage to persons born in this country or of American parents; the election of American born citizens only to official positions in this country.

Every member admitted to it is required to take and subscribe to the following oath:

I solemnly swear that I will not vote for any person or persons for any official position in this country under the laws thereof, who are not American born citizens and that I will not betray any of the secrets of this order, or give the name of any person belonging to the same without his consent and that I will faithfully obey all rules or orders of the same not in conflict with the constitution of the United States and the state of which I am a resident; and that I will do all in my power to forward the interests of the order generally, and my council of which I am a member, and of American principles in this country. So help me God.

As will be seen these are precisely the "sentiments" of the old Know Nothing party, and we commend them to the earnest attention of such of our citizens of foreign birth as have in contemplation the support of the Republican ticket

On the 4th and 5th of July 1876, a conference of the grand council of the order met in Philadelphia and nominated Hayes and Wheeler for President and Vice President. On the latter day Mr. Hayes received a committee from this conference, thanked them and accepted the nomination.

On the 9th of July, 1876, a copy of the constitution of the order, the oath, the address and a certificate of honorary membership, were formally presented to Governor Hayes at Columbus, Ohio, by a special committee of five, of which W. T. Black was chairman. Governor Hayes accepted the nomination and honorary membership, thanked the committee, and said he would make formal acknowledgement in writing. It appears that on the 10th of July, 1876, he made the formal acknowledgement, through his private secretary, in a letter, the fac simile of which the World published, and further indicated that he would put them in the way of getting money to help carry the election.

This binds Mr. Hayes never to support as a candidate, nor appoint to office, any foreign born citizen, and to labor to amend the naturalization laws so that only American born citizens can vote.

Finding it impossible to evade the charges Gen. Wyckoff, Chairman of the Ohio State Republican Committee, probably at the instigation of Mr. Hayes, writes a contemptible letter in which he argues that the letter was written by Lee, the private Secretary of Mr. Hayes and that he (Hayes) should not be held responsible. Comment is unnecessary on such a silly and unmanly argument. But if that is the way Mr. Hayes transacts business, he certainly is not fit for the office of President.

The Philadelphia Press while virtually admitting that Hayes accepted the nomination from the Alliance claims that he never saw the Know Nothing clause and only looked to the endorsement of the Republican platform. This is more silly, if possible than Wyckoff's letter and is another strong argument against Mr. Hayes' fitness for office. If he accepts nominations either personally or through his secretary without knowing to what he binds himself, he certainly would fail into the hands of unscrupulous politicians if elected and his administration would be even worse than Grant's.

Since the above was written the Cincinnati Enquirer has published a letter from Mr. Hayes, which proves that he was a member of the Alliance before July. The following is the letter:

COLUMBUS, O., June 29, 1876.—L. S. Tyler, Chief Secretary American Alliance, Box 2,071, New York.—DEAR SIR: Your favor of 19th inst., received with certificates of membership, constitution, etc., of the American Alliance. Be pleased to accept my thanks for your high appreciation of myself. Trusting that I may prove worthy of the confidence reposed in me, I remain your fellow-citizen,

R. B. HAYES.

The Enquirer says; "It is signed by Mr. Hayes, and a letter press copy is now in his letter-book at Columbus. It was written a few days before his nomination by the Alliance at Philadelphia, and his acceptance of the membership is undoubtedly the reason which impelled his nomination by the Alliance." Governor Hayes will not dare to deny signing and sending this letter, as the original can be produced and will be published in the same manner as the Lee letter.

Let our foreign born citizens ponder well these facts and remember that a vote for Hayes and Wheeler is in effect a vote to aid in their own disfranchisement.

WISDOM IN CHUNKS.

Columbia County Republican, June 15, 1876. "Hayes is the most popular man in the West, and will carry every western State." * * "The egregious blunders of the last rebel Congress insures a united North with a good proportion of the South."

Republican, July 20. "What sane man will doubt that Hayes, the favorite son of the Buckeyes, will carry Ohio by 50,000 majority. The Democrats concede it by 60,000, but 50,000 will fill the bill. Indiana's close geographical relation to Ohio will operate powerfully, and Indiana will follow Ohio by probably 10,000 less majority."

Republican, Sept. 14. "The Democratic leaders are seriously considering the propriety of withdrawing Tilden's name from the Presidential ticket, in view of the damaging disclosures made in regard to his character. The anti-Tilden wave is gathering strength every day."

Republican, Sept. 7. "A general disgust for the false professions of the Democracy has seized the country, and a revulsion of sentiment more powerful than that which passed over the country when Sumpter was fired upon, is sweeping over it now. * * The best judges say, that every northern State will cast its vote for Hays and Wheeler, and five southern States."

The Radicals have done rather more lying than usual this Fall concerning election returns and the same with intent to deceive." Their newspapers and public speakers claimed immense gains in Vermont, but the official figures show the smallest Republican majority even given in the State; they exulted over a majority of 16,000 in Maine, but it dwindled down to a little over 11,000; they insisted that the town elections of Connecticut showed strong Republican gains but it turns out that the Democrats have gained towns over last Fall's elections; in Colorado they claimed 2000 majority, but it seems that the result is doubtful and they will be lucky if at the most, they get half the amount claimed.

The Democratic majority in Georgia was so immense that they could do nothing with it so they placidly remark "of course, we made no effort you know" an argument which might impress a two-year-old infant of idiotic tendencies as forcible' Georgia gives about 80,000 majority and the Legislature stands as follows: Senate, Democrats 40, Republicans, 1: House, all Democrats except 6, three of whom are negroes

The influence which has been exerted by Harper's Weekly, miscalled a "Journal of Civilization," has been bad for the country. The caricatures of distinguished and honorable men which have appeared from time to time in that paper are simple disgraceful. The pencil of Thomas Nast, a clever but unscrupulous artist, has spared no prominent person in political life, nor have the pens of the editors been more chivalrous. This outrageous prostitution of pen and pencil to partisan uses reached its climax in the campaign of 1872, when the shameful pictures of Mr. Greeley called forth indignant remonstrances from the respectable papers of the country. If the Weekly did not assume so high a position in the newspaper world and pretend to be, as its name indicates "a journal of civilization," this reckless pictorial slander would not seem so inexcusable. Either the Harpers should cease the publication of abusive and unjust articles and the printing of scandalous caricatures or change the name of the paper to "a journal of abuse and promoter of the degradation of public morality." It is not necessary that even a party organ should descend to low scurrility, either of pencil or of pen, in order to advance the interests of the political organization to which it belongs, and it is yet more out of place in a journal which pretends to belong to the higher and purer class of literary publications. Mr. Nast has created, to a great extent, a taste for this unhealthy kind of personal ridicule and in that respect his undoubted talent may be considered a public misfortune.

NEW YORK, Oct 12, 1876, 8:28 a. m.

IndianaDemocratic. Hendricks telegraphs from Indianapolis seven o'clock: Returns coming in slow, but indicate Indiana certainly den ocratic. Thompson, Chairman Ohio State Committee, telegraphs four o'clock, that he does not concede Ohio to Republicans; that the State is very close and our chances equal with the Republican. Democratic gain in Cleveland is two thousand eight hundred and forty-six and in Cincinnati two thousand one hundred. West Virginia is Democratic by six to eight thousand.

If Tilden is elected the southern war claims that will be paid will double the debt and impoverish the nation. Are you prepared to shoulder the responsibility of such a suicidal policy?

The editor of the Gazette & Bulletin, from which the above was taken, knows, or ought to know, that the statement is utterly false. The Constitution (art. 14 Sec. 4) expressly prohibits any such payment. The COLUMBIAN of last week, contained this section, which we republish to refute the charge:

The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, SHALL NOT BE QUESTIONED. But not the United States, nor any State, shall assume or pay any debts or obligations incurred in AID OF INSURRECTION OR REBELLION AGAINST THE UNITED STATES, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held ILLEGAL AND VOID."

MULLETT.

Mullett has turned up again, not to be sure as supervising architect of the Treasury but as Superintendent of government buildings now in process of erection and including the Custom Houses at Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, and the Post offices at New York, Hartford and Philadelphia. This will give Mullett a chance to spend a few more millions of public money, unless Congress does, what it most certainly should do, enact a law which will effectually restrict Mullett from so doing. We had fondly imagined that when Mr. Bristow kicked this expensive creature out of the Treasury that we had heard the last of him, at least in an official position, but Grant sticks to his friends well, and so we have Mullett with us again. Mr. Potter of New York who succeeded Mullett as architect of the Treasury was a gentleman of fine abilities and undoubted honor, but he did not seem to have imbibed the idea that his office should be used to forward the plans of the Administration leaders to carry elections. Mullett understands that part of the business perfectly hence his return to power. The Philadelphia Times with its accustomed shrewdness hits the nail on the head, thus:

The election is approaching; it is time to give out contracts and start up the public works, and who is there so well qualified to superintend this patriotic task as the mighty Mullett, who can spend more money in a given time than any man in the United States service?

Governor Chamberlain, of South Carolina issued a proclamation on Saturday, declaring it impracticable to enforce, by the ordinary judical process, the laws of the State within certain counties; ordering the disbandment of the white rifle clubs within three days; and declaring that if his order is disregarded he will "exhaust his own powers and then appeal to the United States Government."

The Democratic State Committee of South Carolina has issued an address denouncing this proclamation as "unwarranted by law and facts, and issued to furnish a pretext for troops." Chief Justice Moses, in reply to a letter from Wade Hampton, states that "he knows nothing to lead him to conclude that South Carolina is an armed camp, or that any arm is needed more potent than the law." Associate Justice Willard, and Judges Mackey and Cooke, Republicans, have also written letters denying any knowledge of the alleged facts set forth in the proclamation, and Judge Mackey charges the Governor with "conspiracy against a free ballot."

At the election in Delaware on Tuesday of last week the Democrats carried the State by a majority of 2,052.

A CORRESPONDENT inquires whether it is true that Governor Tilden stated to Mr. Daniel P. Jones, when asked to contribute to the Christian Commission during the war, that he "would rather see all the soldiers starve to death than give them one cent." Of course it is wholly untrue, and no affidavit of Mr. Jones to that effect would be credited by any sensible citizen. The man who was called to Washington to confer with Lincoln in the darkest days of the war; who denounced the heresy of seccession in and out of season; who declared that there could be no peace until there was absolute submission to the authority of the government, and who, in his struggles for reform since the war, extorted the unqualified commendation of the New York Tribune, the Times and every lover of public and private integrity—such a man cannot be successfully assailed at this late day as a perjurer and a traitor, and he who attempts it only insults the intelligence of the American people. There may be many strong political reasons why Mr. Tilden should not be elected President, but the country will be most fortunate if men of his unsullied honesty and eminent ability shall always fill the Presidential chair.—Phila. Times.

Important to Centennial Visitors.

Many of our readers who yet intend to visit Philadelphia, will wish to do so at the least possible cost and trouble. They will not wish to pay hotel rates when they can obtain good accommodations at private and boarding houses at one-third hotel rates. During September and October the crowds will be so large that they cannot be accomodated at hotels, and to avoid trouble on their arrival all should know where they are going to stop, before leaving home. You can obtain good accommodations by the week for from $5 to $10, or by the day from $1 to $2. To do this you must write to J. Weaver & Co., 1318 Market street, Philadelphia, and they will, on receipt of $1, to pay them for their trouble and expense, send you a list of one hundred boarding houses, giving the prices charged by the day or week. You can then select a place for yourself, and make arrangements direct with the parties you wish to stop with. In this way you can save from $10 to $25. Should you wish to stop at a hotel they will make all necessary arrangements for you and charge you but $1. This is our advice. Take it. State what paper you saw this in.

A Tonic Without Alchohol.

The Peruvian Syrup is a Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, which vitalizes, purifies, and enriches the blood. Dyspeptics and those suffering from Chronic Diseases read the following:

From Rev John Gregory, Pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, at Pittston, Luzerne Co., Pa.

My Dear Sir—Having at various times, personally, and in my own and other families, tested the great value of the medicine called Peruvian Syrup or Protected Solution of Protoxide of Iron, I must cheerfully recommend it, especially to those who are suffering from dyspeptic and nervous disorders. As a reliable and powerful alterative, it is, I think, unsurpassed; and as a tonic, free from all the objectionable features of alchoholic remedies, it is a most sufficient auxiliary to the temperance cause. One of the greatest hindrances to the temperance reform at present is, as I think, the medical use of alcoholic stimulents. Whatever may be argued as to their necessity in certain cases, we have, in the Peruvian Syrup, a safe and efficient substitute for those dangerous remedies. This testimony is given unsolicited, with the hope that some who are not yet acquainted with the valuable properties of the medicine may be induced to give it a trial. Yours truly,

John Gregory.

Caution.—Be sure you get the Peruvian Syrup (not Peruvian Bark). Sold by dealers generally. A thirty-two page pamphlet containing a treatise on Iron as a medical agent, and other valuable papers, testimonials from distinguished physicians, clergymen, and others, will be sent free to any address. DYSPEPSIA! DYSPEPSIA! DYSPEPSIA!

Dyspepsia is the most perplexing of all human ailments. Its symptoms are almost infinite in their variety and the forlorn and despondent victims of the disease often deny themselves the prey, in turn, of every known malady. This is due, in part to the close sympathy which exists between the stomach and the brain, and in part also to the fact that any disturbance of the digestive functions necessarily disorders the liver, the bowels and the nervous system and effects, to some extent, the quality of the blood.

E. F. Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron is a sure cure. This is not a new preparation, to be tried and found wanting, it has been prescribed daily for many years in the practice of eminent physicians with unparalled success; it is not expected or intended to cure all the diseases to which the human family is subject, but warranted to cure Dyspepsia in its most obstinate form. Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron never fails to cure. Symptoms of Dyspepsia are loss of appetite, wind and rising of the food, dryness of the mouth, heartburn, distension of the stomach and bowels, constipation, headache, dizziness, sleeplessness and low spirits. Try the great remedy and be convinced of its merits. Get the genuine. Take only Kunkel's, which is put only in $1 bottles. Depot 229 sale by all Druggists and dealers every where.

Ask for E. F. Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron and take no other, six bottles for $5.00 or $1. per bottle.

Worms! Worms! Worms!

E. F. Kunkel's Worm Syrup never fails to destroy Pin, Seat and stomach worms. Dr. Kunkel, the only successful Physician who removes Tape worm in 2 hours, alive with head, and no fee until removed. Common sense teaches if Tape worm be removed all other worms can be readily destroyed. Send for circular to E. F. Kunkel, 229 North Ninth street, Philadelphia, Pa. or call on your druggist for a bottle of Kunkel's Worm Syrup, price $1. It never fails. October.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

The reputation it has attained, in consequence of the marvellous cures it has produced during the last half century, is a sufficient assurance to the public that it will continue to realize the happiest results that can be desired. In almost every section of country there are persons, publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs, by its use. All who have tried it, acknowledge its superiority; and where its virtues are known, no one hesitates as to what medicine to employ to relieve the distress and suffering peculiar to pulmonary affections. CHERRY PECTORAL always affords instant relief, and performs rapid cures of the milder varieties of bronchial disorder, as well as the more formidable diseases of the lungs.

As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of Childhood, it is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are restored and restored to health.

This medicine gains friends at every trial, as the cures it is constantly producing are too remarkable to be forgotten. No family should be without it, and those who have once used it never will.

Eminent Physicians throughout the country prescribe it, and Clergymen often recommend it from their knowledge of its effects.

The plug hat you wore fourteen years ago is just the figure now. Got it yet?

We go to press to soon to give any account of the Fair. A full report will appear next week.

There was a little flurry of snow last Wednesday morning, the first of the season for Bloomsburg.

On the 27th of September two persons were baptised by immersion in the river above Espy by Rev. J. A. Irvine.

Rev. D. J. Waller received the Republican nomination for Congress from this district by the conference which met at Hazleton last Friday.

There was a very large Democratic meeting at Berwick on the 2d inst. Hon. C. R. Buckalew delivered an able address which was received with hearty applause.

Hon. George Scott, our late Associate Judge, had his life insured in the Charter Oak Life Insurance Co. for $5,000, which amount we are pleased to hear has been paid to his heirs.

Still another counterfeit. This time a $10 bill on the Lafayette National Bank of Indiana. If any of our readers are fortunate enough to get hold of a bill of this size they had better examine it.

The rains which fell in September and the first few days of this month have filled the creeks and springs, so that there is no danger of scarcity of water this winter. Now let cold weather come on.

A new counterfeit twenty cent piece is in circulation. It differs from the genuine coin in appearance, being of a bright lead color and lighter in weight, but may be apt to deceive the incautious.

The Wyoming Democrat says: The universal glum expression of the farmers, occasioned by the failure of the potatoe and buckwheat crops, makes the approaching cold weather all the more dreadful in anticipation.

The oldest son of Hon. H. B. Payne, of Wilkes-Barre, fell from a tree while gathering nuts one day last week and died a few hours afterwards. He was nine years of age. Take warning, boys.

The Postmaster General has decided that the term "printed matter," as used in the recent postal law, does not include blank books, blanks, charts, etc., and that on this class of mail matter the old rates must be paid.

Workingmen, now is the time for action. Let your voices be raised for a change. Let your votes be cast for a change. Reform is the watchword, and to effect a reform a change in administration is the first step.

A Tilden and Hendricks Club has been organized at Benton. We are glad to know this, and hope that the Democrats of that township will roll up a larger majority this fall than they have ever given.

One of the many actions that induce the working classes to anticipate good from the election of Samuel J. Tilden to the Presidency is the expression of his opinions on the labor question, found in his message vetoing the convict labor bill.

A Connecticut female uses a needle that she has had for 22 years.—Ex.

And aught little sewing she has done with it, we'll wager. She might keep it fifty years longer if she puts it out of the reach of the children.

There will be a Mass Meeting at Berwick, on Monday evening next week in Odd Fellows' Hall. C. B. Brockway will deliver an address. The Continental Cornet Band will furnish music. The ladies are specially invited to attend.

We are sorry to hear of the death of William Smith, of Danville, familiarly called "Billy," which sad event occurred last Friday. He had been omnibus driver at Danville for many years and will be remembered by scores of travelers whose business called them to that town.

We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs. Rollins & Holmes, to be found on our fourth page, of the Argand Base Burner Stove. This is the season of the year when stoves become objects of interest, and the best ones should receive careful attention.

The Democratic Club meeting at the Opera House last Saturday night was the most successful one which has yet been held. An able and interesting address was delivered by Col. J. G. Freeze. By actual count there were 135 persons present. The Republicans mustered 35 at their meeting the same night.

E. H. Chase, Esq., has had five more counties added to his (the Twelfth) Internal Revenue District, which places under his charge twelve counties, viz: Luzerne, Susquehanna, Bradford, Sullivan, Wyoming, Montour, Columbia, Northampton, Pike, Carbon, Monroe and Wayne. The latter five were added Monday.

The Democrats of Centre Twp. raised a fine hickory pole at Centreville, last Tuesday afternoon. Large delegations from Berwick, Briarcreek and Bloomsburg were present. The Drum Corps of this town was on hand. The pole was 80 feet high without a splice, and headed by a new broom. Brief addresses were delivered by B. F. Zarr Esq. and C. B. Brockway.

Mr. A. L. Waterman is in town for the purpose of numbering the houses in the different streets. He proposes to put up the names of the streets at the corners of intersecting streets free of expense. It would undoubtedly be a good plan to have the streets named and houses numbered, and we understand that the cost will be very light to each property owner.

Rumor has it that Dr. McCron, of Bloomsburg, will return to Baltimore and take charge of the congregation recently under the charge of Rev. U. Graves. Dr. McCron was pastor of that church before Rev. Graves went to Baltimore.—Shamokin Times.

The COLUMBIAN has already denied the truth of this statement, at the request of Dr. McCron, and we now reiterate the denial. The Dr. will remain here.

On the 1st of October Era-tus Furman died in Hazleton, after a two day's illness, of congestion of the lungs. Mr. Furman was born in this county and was the son of the late Sheriff Furman and brother of E. R., C. W., and W. W. Furman now residing here. Eratus Furman was about 38 years of age, and left this county some 25 years ago. He had many friends here, who will regret to learn of his sudden death.

If you want to keep your cider sweet use sulphate of lime.—Ex.

Don't you do it. Sulphate of lime is only plaster of paris and not soluble in cider. Sulphate of lime is the article needed and a very different thing from the sulphate.

Somebody made a very bad spell of cirlar saw, on a constable's handbill posted on a tree box in front of the court house. This is the way it was done. "Sirgular"—Gazette & Bulletin.

It don't strike us that you have improved much on that spelling, if, as we presume, you intend mentioning a circular saw. Try again.

The largest cars ever built in this section are the hay cars now being constructed by the Jackson & Woodin Mfg. Co. They are colossal in proportion, measuring 41 feet in length, 10 feet wide, and 14 feet and 6 inches high. They are handsomely lettered and painted and make a fine appearance.—Berwick Independent.

SAD ACCIDENT.—On Saturday afternoon of last week a three year old son of Mr. Daniel Reedy, of this place, fell into a tub of hot soap and was so terribly scalded that the skin adhered to its clothes when taken off. The little sufferer is doing remarkably well under the treatment of Dr. Little.—Berwick Independent.

Help your local paper by furnishing all the items of interest that come under your observation, to the proprietors of this paper. It will give you practice in jotting down items, will please our readers, and will help us. Send us business notes, incidents, marriages, deaths, local enterprises, and social items.—Hazleton Sentinel.

Those are our sentiments all the time. Will our readers oblige us?

In answer to the inquiry, "can a life policy be safely transferred payable to a man's wife with assent of both parties?" the Journal of Commerce answers that "it is generally understood that a policy taken out by a husband on his own life in favor of his wife may be assigned as security to a third party by the deed of both parties and the consent of the underwriter."

The New York Journal of Commerce says there is a very common mistake in regard to the obligation of one who finds or discovers lost property. If the finder in any way knows the owner, or if there be any mark on the goods by which the owner can be ascertained, the taking and keeping will be felonious. The finder in such a case can be arrested for constructive larceny, or can be held responsible for its full value.

Partridges are said to be unusually numerous this year and as the shooting season for these birds begins on the 15th of this month our sportsmen can look forward with something like certainty to full game bags. By the way, why do not our friends bring partridges to Bloomsburg? They would undoubtedly meet with ready sale if prices were kept within reasonable limits; and there is no reason why they should not be, as the birds are plenty.

The Bloomsburg Columbian looks to us as if printed with ink made of coal tar and soot. When it is readable it is one of the best papers that reaches us.—Bellefonte Watchman.

We apologize for the ink and return thanks for the compliment. We have, however, purchased another pound of ink (at ninety days) and will try to do better hereafter. Don't be ink-redulous.

But really, Meek, that ink wasn't made from "coal tar and soot," it was real printers' ink. Does this explanation "soot" you?

Democrat, if you are an honest man vote for Peter Cooper rather than for that prince of shysters, Sammy Tilden.

Another burst of intelligence from John Bannister Gibson Kinsloe, of the Clinton Republican. It takes Kinsloe to soar to such heights of intellectual superiority as to enable him to call one of the ablest lawyers in the country a "shyster." If Mr. Tilden's mind could grasp so small an object as Kinsloe, it would be interesting to hear the opinion of the lawyer and statesman concerning the intellectual status of the Republican's editor.

POLE RAISING.—On Friday last the Democrats of Main assembled and erected a beautiful hickory pole over one hundred feet high in the village of Mainville. The pole went up in fine style and to the satisfaction of everybody. The meeting then adjourned to the hall of Wm. T. Shuman, Esq., and organized by the election of Hon. David S. Brown to the chair, and electing J. R. Jameson, Esq., Secretary. The meeting was addressed by Hon. C. R. Buckalew and Col. J. G. Freeze. The township of Main will give a heavier Democratic majority than ever this fall. Its citizens are active and enthusiastic, and will give a good account of themselves on the day of the election.

Last Sunday morning between two and three o'clock a fire broke out in the large three story frame building on the main street of Espy, which, together with a small frame house adjoining, was entirely consumed. The buildings were owned by S. W. Baker, who kept a saloon in the basement, the upper rooms being occupied by the Odd Fellow's Association. The fire originated in the basement, but the cause is not stated. The brick house of John McKamey on the east and the frame dwelling of Mrs. Barton on the west were badly scorched by the flames and the window frames in McKamey's house were mostly destroyed. The Friendship Engine of this town went to the fire but arrived too late to be of service. The loss is probably between $4,000 and $5,000. Mr. Baker was insured with Freas Brown, Esq., to the amount of $2,400.

NIJNE NOVGOROD FAIR.—The great market of the eastern world has been held at the junction of the Volga and Olga Rivers, in Russia, every summer for hundreds of years. Here the nations of Europe and Asia meet with their products for trade. Cossack, Chinese, Turk and Persian meet the German and Greek with every variety of merchandise that mankind employs, from sapphires to grindstones. tea, opium, fur, food, tools and fabrics, and last but not least, medicines. J. C. Ayer & Co.'s celebrated remedies from America were displayed in an elegant bazaar where the Doctor himself might sometimes be seen. They are known and taken on the steppes of Asia as well as the prairies of the West, and are an effectual antidote for the diseases that prevail in the courts of the North as well as the huts and cabins of the western continent.—Lincoln (Ill.) Times. Oct.

The Senatorial Conference of the 24th District met at the City Hotel, Danville, on Tuesday Oct. 10, 1876 at 10 o'clock a. m.

Columbia.—John G. Freeze, David Lowenberg.

Lycoming.—H. H. Cummin, W. F. Logan.

Montour.—Thomas Chalfant, W. H. Borst.

Sullivan.—Geo. D. Jackson, M. Meylert.

The conference organized by electing Hon. John G. Freeze, President.

H. H. Cummin, Secretary.

Mr. Lowenberg was substituted for C. B McHenry, who with his family was at the Centennial.

The nomination of candidates being then in order, Mr. Lowenberg nominated Charles G. Barkley of Columbia county; Mr. Borst nominated John Shearer of Montour county; Dr. Logan nominated Robert P. Allen of Lycoming county.

The Conference proceeded to ballot and after several recesses and thirty three ballots, all of which stood.

Charles G. Barkley,	4
John Shearer,	2
Robert P. Allen,	2

Mr Jackson of Sullivan moved the unanimous nomination of Mr. Allen, which was seconded by Mr. Lowenberg of Columbia and carried nem. con.

Mr. Allen being introduced accepted the nomination in a neat speech. On motion the Conference adjourned.

The Hollidaysburg Register goes for the stamps after the following manner:

The candidate for office has no right to expect the support of his party printer—the placing his name at the head of his columns, the defending him from the charges of his enemies, and the printing of tickets—unless he pays him for the labor. This is a fair, legitimate source of revenue for the printer, and he has a right to demand a fair reward for his labor. Should a lawyer do as much for a client as does an editor for the candidates, his fee would be hundreds instead of the few tens charged by the printer. Let it be understood by candidates that they will have to pay the printer for his his labor as they would any other workman for his labor. Let editors charge them a good fair price for the work and brains they are expected to use for them. And let office seekers and candidates understand this in the future.

We have always understood that candidates were expected to pay the printer a fair price for the support of the paper, and for tickets, &c. We have always been paid for this labor except in two or three instances, and we shall remember those cases and pay them back some day.—Bellefonte Republican.

POLE RAISING.—Having had some considerable experience in pole raising in previous campaigns, and having found when I reached the ground a lack of proper preparation and consequent delay and danger, and seeing further a growing disposition to indulge in that sort of political pastime and use it as an inducement to a larger rally, I think it well to make some suggestions upon the subject.

1st. The Pole should be from 75 to 100 feet high; but altitude is not material, and if a nice, straight pole can be obtained, even a less number of feet will be satisfactory.

2d. If the Pole is to be spliced that work should be done the day before the raising. The bands should be wide and strong, and not less than three of them should be supplied—more if the pole is long and heavy.

3d. At least a dozen good pike poles should be prepared—and two or three sets of heavy sheer poles, substantial and safe—and at least three ropes, strong and well secured for steadying and assisting the pole as it approaches perpendicularity.

4th. Every thing should be ready the day before, for a pole to be raised at 2 p. m. is always delayed till 4 or 5 p. m. Thus every body, and especially the speakers, are incommoded, time wasted and patience tired.

Through the energy of a number of young men, among whom were Frank Cosper of the Republican and H. W. Kahler of the COLUMBIAN, and the enterprise and liberality of many citizens, a sufficient sum of money has been collected to pay for the truck and apparatus of the Rescue Hook and Ladder Company, which arrived on Monday last. The truck is very neat in appearance and substantially made. It is furnished with ladders, buckets, lanterns, pike-poles, hooks, &c., and will undoubtedly prove a good investment. The Rescue boys are very proud of their success, as they may well be. What they want now is a place to keep their truck. Why cannot some enterprising citizen erect a suitable building containing room on the first floor for fire apparatus, and on the second floor rooms for the accommodation of the companies and a Town Council chamber? The rent now paid by the town for a Council Chamber and a barn to keep the Friendship Engine in, with the rent paid by the Friendship for a meeting room, would pay a large interest on what it would cost to put up such a building. Let some of our capitalists think over this matter.

We will give an account next week of the Firemens' Parade which occurred yesterday afternoon.

THE CONGRESSIONAL CONFERENCE.

After an extraordinary amount of correspondence and telegraphing it was determined to meet at Milford, Pike county, on Wednesday, Oct. 4th. As the district is "fearfully and wonderfully made," the initial question was how to get there. Dr. Simington and his conferees started via Philadelphia and New York, and managed to get into Milford Wednesday afternoon. Maj. Klotz and friends went around by Easton and New Jersey, and by hiring private conveyances got in during the night, with the Monroe delegation in company. The Luzerne conferees, supposing there had been an adjournment to the 11th, did not reach Stroudsburg until 6 p. m. Tuesday, and then had a midnight ride to the appointed rendezvous. Columbia county started for the battle-field in detachments; Dr. Megargell and Co. Supt. Snyder, a substitute for Isaiah Bower, leaving Monday morning via Scranton, Dunmore, Cobb's Mountain, &c., to Hawley, over the gravity railroad, and thence to Port Jervis in New York State. There they heard that the Conference had adjourned, and were on the point of returning home, when the report was contradicted, and Wednesday noon they found Milford. Capt. Brockway, Mr. Lowenberg and J. Terwilliger, Esq., left on Tuesday morning via Stroudsburg, from whence they staged it to Milford, a distance of 34 miles, reaching there in the evening of the same day.

On Wednesday afternoon the Conference met at the office of John S. Biddis, Esq.,

The list of conferees being called by counties, the following gentlemen answered:

Carbon—John Taylor, L. F. Lentz, H. E Packer.

Columbia—David Lowenberg, Jacob Terwilliger, W. H. Snyder.

Luzerne—David P. Barton, Bernard McManus, S. W. Keller.

Monroe—Linford Marsh, Simeon Barry, I. S. Case.

Montour—L. K. Mowrer, A. W. Brandon, D. F. Ganger.

Pike—John M. Van Akin, D. M. Van Auken, (substituted for George Ainsley,) John D. Biddis.

Mr. Snyder nominated D. F. Ganger for Temporary President, which was agreed to.

Mr. Biddis nominated L. K. Mowrer, of Montour, as Chairman of the Convention, which was agreed to.

Mr. Ganger nominated W. H. Snyder, of Columbia, and Mr. Barton nominated Bernard McManus, of Luzerne, as Secretaries, both of which nominations were agreed to.

Nominations for Member of Congress being declared in order, the following names were presented.

By Mr. Taylor, Robert Klotz, Carbon.

By Mr. Lowenberg, Charles B. Brockway, Columbia.

By Mr. Snyder, O. A. Megargell, Columbia.

By Mr. Barton, Francis D. Collins, Luzerne.

By Mr. Case, A. O. Greenawalt, Monroe.

By Mr. Brandon, R. S. Simington, Montour.

By Mr. Biddis, George H. Rowland, Pike.

On motion the nominations closed.

It was, on motion, agreed that conferees have the right to change their votes before the result is announced by the Chairman.

Mr. Van Auken moved that all persons who desire to attend the convention be admitted; which was amended by Mr. Snyder by the addition of "until we decide to exclude them," and as thus amended was agreed to.

Up to Friday noon 109 ballots had been taken, when an adjournment was secured to Stroudsburg, Tuesday, Oct. 17th. The ballots were mainly complimentary. Once, by the casting vote of W. H. Snyder, Dr. Simington was nominated, and at another time Mr. Greenawalt received the necessary ten votes, but in both instances Pike county changed votes before the result was announced. Our candidates acted harmoniously.

The ladies, one and all, pronounce Glenn's Sulphur Soap the best clarifier and emolient for complexion, that they have ever employed. It should be used by all who are anxious to possess unblemished skins.

Agricultural.

The Manurial Value of Red Clover.

If a ton of green clover is worth five times as much for fertilizing purposes as a ton of common yard manure made by animals fed on straw or timothy hay, and with straw litter largely intermixed, then a good crop of clover might be rated in value about as follows: Two tons of stalks and leaves, estimated when converted to dry hay, would be equal to at least four tons of the green material, and half this amount in roots would be two tons more; the whole six tons multiplied by five, to bring it to the standard of common manure, would show a heavy crop of clover to be worth thirty tons of ordinary yard manure. This estimate may not be strictly correct, and it cannot always be, as yard manure varies much in its value, according to age, amount of straw or cornstalks used, and mode of heaping or preserving. But let the estimate be varied so as to meet the differing circumstances, and it will be seen that clover possesses eminent advantages.

Estimating the value of a good clover crop as equal to thirty loads of yard manure, cultivators may easily figure which will be most economical in application, including the drawing and spreading. On hills, or on parts of large farms remote from stables, the balance will be found to be much in favor of the green crop. Every thrifty farmer manufactures and saves all the yard manure which he can; but in common mixed husbandry it is sufficient of itself to keep up a high state of fertility in all the fields. A rotation, comprising the frequent turning under of a growing crop, becomes absolutely essential to a successful and profitable husbandry. Such a rotation will usually be found most advantageous if the crop is plowed under at two years of age. The plants will then have attained full size. It may be cut for hay the first year, and, if cured without becoming wet, will not only make an excellent nutritive feed for cattle and sheep, but the manure resulting from feeding will be of high value. Since the introduction of mowing machines, hay tedders, horse-rakes and horse-forks, there is little necessity of allowing a crop of clover to become blackened and spoiled by rain. The practice of a top dressing wheat fields with fine manure applied in autumn when the grain is sown is not only highly advantageous to the wheat, but insures the germination and vigorous growth of the clover.

Feeding Horses.

The Michigan Farmer has this good advice: Almost of more importance than the form in which food is given, are the frequency and regularity of meals. The horse's digestive organs are not constructed for long fasts. Long intervals without food, produced hunger and hunger begets voracity: food is bolted, and indigestion and colic follow. This is doubly true and dangerous with horses doing hard work. They come to their long deferred meal not only hungry, but exhausted; not only is the food bolted, but the stomach is in such a state as to be incapable of thoroughly active digestion, and is overpowered by half the amount of food it could otherwise digest. The prevention of waste is almost attained when we give a proper form; but there are two points to which it is right to devote some attention —the form of the mangers, and attention to the wants of the individual animals. The mangers should not be less than three feet long, eighteen inches wide, and twelve inches deep. They should have an upper border of wood projecting inward for two inches and a transverse bar of half-inch iron across the middle. A piece of two-inches hoop iron, on the top of the manger, protects it from damage by the horse's teeth. This simple arrangement prevents the horse from throwing out his corn, and the provender is not set in so thick a layer as in the ordinary narrow and shallow manger.

HOW TO COOK A TURNIP.—I will ask the reader to cook two turnips in two different ways. The first is to be peeled and sliced, and left to soak in cold water for an hour or more. The slices are to be boiled until quite tender, and then are to be drained and nicely mashed with butter. This is the most common way of cooking them, and it has the demerit of washing out the gum and the sugar, and the other fine constituents of the root, and consequently the flavor is very much reduced. The other root is to be washed quite clean; but it is not to be peeled, or cut, or soaked. Boil it whole in its "jacket." It will take twice as long as to cook the one that was cut. When, by trying it with a fork, you find it quite tender, take it up, peel it, press it moderately, and mash it with butter. Instead of being perhaps as you will expect, strong, rank, or bitter, it will be deliciously full flavored, and will contain all the nourishment that was in it before it was cooked.—Gardener's Magazine.

WHAT CROPS LEAVE IN THE SOIL.—Experiments made in Germany by Dr. Weiske and several other savants show that the stubble and roots in the earth, by crops that have been harvested, add to the soil much more nutritive value than is commanly supposed. These experiments fully explain the great value of clover as a preparatory crop for wheat, and for all other crops that are not manured with nitrogen, potash and phosphates. The clover of a single acre has been found to leave nitrogen enough for 114 bushels of wheat, phosphoric acid enough for 114 bushels, and potash enough for seventy eight bushels. Moreover, it is found that most of this valuable material is left in the best possible condition for use. Whether the nitrogen of the clover comes wholly or partly from the soil or from the air, it is certainly taken from a condition in which it is of little use to most crops, and is converted into an available one, so that practically, the clover is a creator of nitrogen in the soil, as it is also a sufficient purveyor of potash and phosphoric acid.

GILT-EDGE BUTTER.—At the recent exhibition of the Chester County Agricultural Society, Pennsylvania, Isaac Acker received the first prize on butter. His mode of management is as follows: He feeds ten quarts of corn meal and bran to each cow per day, with hay. Does not think that corn fodder make good butter. The temperature of the cream at churning was fifty-seven degrees, and it was churned from twelve to twenty minutes. Uses six ounces of salt and three ounces of white sugar to twenty pounds of butter. Uses an Embroe butter-worker, with a sponge and cloth, and does not wash the butter with water. Mr. Acker believes that the essentials to make the dairy business pay are good cows, well fed and taken care of, good and convenient dairy houses and appliances, and then produce a good article and sell it at a high price. Last year his cows averaged 230 pounds each.

PUDDING.—One quart of milk, half cup of white sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla extract, one teaspoonful of butter, half a cup full of rice; merely wash the rice, and after boiling it in the sweetened pudding, put it in the oven, occasionally stirring for ten minutes. It will be of the consistency of ice-cream, and very delicate. Bake until browned on top.

Consumption Canbe Cured.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS.

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Frequently medicines that will stop a cough will occasion the death of the patient; they lock up the liver, stop the circulation of the blood, hemorrhages follows, and in fact they clog the actions of the very organs that caused the cough.

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of Consumption. Many persons complain of a pain in the side, constipation, coated tongue, pain in the shoulder blade, feelings of drowsiness and restlessness, the food lying heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching up of wind.

These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver.

Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly checked, will find the stomach and liver clogged remaining torpid and inactive, and almost before they are aware the lungs are a mass of sores, and shortened, the result of which is death.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain opium or anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juices of the stomach, aids digestion, and creates a ravenous appetite.

When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, or the symptoms otherwise of a bilious tendency, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

Three Points for Consideration.

During the past five years Vegetine has been steadily working itself into public favor, and those who were at first most incredulous in regard to its merits are now its most ardent friends and supporters. There are three essential causes for those having a horror of patent medicines, changing their opinion and lending their influence toward the advancement of Veg-tine. 1st, it is an honestly prepared medicine from barks, roots and herbs. 2d, it honestly accomplishes all that is claimed for it, without leaving any bad effects in the system. 3d, it presents honest vouchers in testimonials from honest, well-known citizens, whose signatures are a sufficient guarantee of their earnestness in the matter. Taking into consideration the vast quantity of medicine brought conspicuously before the public through the flaming advertisements in the newspaper columns with no proof of merit or genuine vouchers of what it has done, we should be pardoned for manifesting a small degree of pride in presenting the following testimonial from Rev. J. S. Dickerson, the popular and ever genial pastor of the South Baptist Church, Boston:

The Tired Body Sues for Sleep.

Boston, March 16, 1874.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq:

Dear Sir—It is as much from a sense of duty as of gratitude that I write to say that your Vegetine has been of great help to me when nothing else seemed to avail which I could safely use. Either excessive mental work or unusual care brings upon me a nervous exhaustion that desperately needs sleep but as desperately denies it. Night after night the prostrated body sues for sleep until the day-dawn is welcomed back, and we begin our work tired out with an almost fruitless chase after rest. Now I have found that a little Vegetine taken just before I retire gives me sweet, and immediate sleep and without any of the evil effects of the usual narcotics. I think two things would tend to make brain-workers sleep, 1, a little less work. 2, a little more Vegetine. This prescription has helped me. Yours, &c.,

J. S. DICKERSON.

Valuable Evidence.

The following unsolicited testimonial from Rev. O. T. Walker, D. D., formerly pastor of Bowdoin Square church, and at present settled in Providence, R. I., must be estemed as reliable evidence. No one should fail to observe that this testimonial is the result of two years' experience with Vegetine in Rev. Mr. Walker's family, who now pronounces it invaluable.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., 164 Transit St.

H. R STEVENS, Esq:

I feel bound to express with my signature the high value I place upon your Vegetine. My daughter has used it for four last two years. In nervous debility it is invaluable, and I recommend it to all who may need an invigorating, renovating tonic.

O. T. WALKER.
Formerly pastor of Bowdoin Sq. Church, Boston.

The Best Evidence.

The following letter from Rev. F. S. Best pastor of the M. E. Church, Natick, Mass., will be read with interest by many physicians. No person can doubt this testimony, and there is no doubt of the curative powers of Vegetine.

NATICK, Mass., Jan. 1, 1874.

H. R. STEVENS:

Dear sir—we have good reason for regarding your Vegetine a medicine of the greatest value. We feel assured that it has been the means of saving our son's life. He is now seventeen years of age; for the last two years he has suffered from necrosis of the leg, caused by scrofulous affection, and was so far reduced that nearly all who saw him thought his recovery impossible. A council of able physicians could give us but the faintest hope of his ever rallying, two of the number declaring that he was beyond the reach of human remedies, that even amputation could not save him. Just then we commenced giving him Vegetine, and from that time to the present he has been continuously improving. He has lately resumed his studies, thrown away crutches and cane, and walks about cheerfully and strong.

Though there is still some discharge where the limb was lanced, we have the fullest confidence that in a little time he will be perfectly cured.

He has taken about three dozen bottles of Vegetine, but lately less but little, as he declares that he is too well to be taking medicine.

Respectfully yours,
F. S. BEST,
MRS. L. C. P. BEST.

Reliable Evidence.

178 Baltic St., Brooklyn, Nov. 14, 1874.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq:

Dear sir—From personal benefit received in its use as well as from personal knowledge of those whose cures thereby have seemed almost miraculous, I can most heartily and sincerely recommend Vegetine for the complaints which it is claimed to cure.

SIDDALL'S
Magnetic Soap.

The Cheapest Soap that can be used for the following Reasons:

1st.—One bar will go as far as two of any other.

2d.—Only half the usual rubbing being required, there is a saving of more than the entire cost of the Soap in labor alone.

3d.—The clothes are made SWEET, CLEAN, and WHITE without BOILING or SCALDING, thus all injury to them is avoided. There is a saving in fuel and hard work, and the washing is done in about half the usual time.

It is also guaranteed under a penalty of fifty dollars not to injure the clothes or hands, and as the trial will enable any person to ascertain the truth of these statements, it would never pay the proprietor to engage in an extensive system of advertising and claim such decided merit for his soap unless he knew from positive experience that it would prove to be to every aspect what is claimed for it.

It is also a superior soap for SHAVING and TOILET purposes.
